

Working Amtrak Stations on the National Register of Historical Places

As part of the research for our station histories, we collect stations that have been added to the National Register of Historical Places. We currently know of 116 working stations on the NRHP and another 10 that are definitely part of Historic Districts (marked as HD), although the stations themselves are not historically designated.

Note

In some cases, Amtrak doesn't actually utilize the station building but just uses the platform, etc. adjacent to it—however, such a station is counted as historic for our purposes because if any work was done next to the station (platform, parking, ADA upgrades) the builder would probably have to take into account the location's historic status in doing the work.
